

THE ELECTIONS.

From the Globe.

NORTH CAROLINA.
We give below returns from all the counties in this State, except two small ones, Gates and Hyde. It strikes us that there is an error in favor of the whigs in the returns from Burke and Caldwell counties; but, as we can well afford to be liberal towards them, we gave them the benefit of the returns, giving them the largest majority. Should Gates and Hyde come in as they did two years ago, (they are too small to alter much,) the whig majority in the State will be 3,681, showing a whig loss of 1,511 compared with the gubernatorial election of 1842; and of 9,228 compared with the presidential election of 1840. The whigs of North Carolina have done much better than their brethren have done in Louisiana, Kentucky, and Indiana.

KENTUCKY.

The returns we publish to-night are all taken from whig newspapers, and therefore they should be received with many grains of allowance. But from our knowledge of the political complexion of the State, we think they are not as black as whig returns are usually.

All the strong whig counties are now in, and we shall reduce their majority daily. We have not time to figure to-night to see what it will be. Our friends should not expect it to fall below 3,000, though it may be a little less. It must be in that neighborhood, and is as likely to be a little under as a little over. That is what we would call knocking the fur off the "banner State," that gave General Harrison near 26,000 majority. Go it, cons! your time is short.

From the Pennsylvania of this morning
THE DEATH OF MR. MUHLENBERG.
Our worst anticipations have been realized. It will be seen by the subjoined that HENRY A. MUHLENBERG is no more; and that, in this sudden removal from the busy scenes of life, the people are called upon to mourn over the departure of one who was in every way, an ornament to the republic, and for whose continued existence there was reason to expect not only increased honor to himself, but lasting advantage to the commonwealth. Gifted, as he was, with experience, prudence, and sagacity, the hope was fondly entertained that with him at the head of the affairs of Pennsylvania, a bright and honorable career was before us; for no man enjoyed a larger share of public confidence, and no one was better qualified to fulfil its expectations.

From the Jefferson Democrat—Extra.
READING, SUNDAY AFTERNOON, Aug. 11, 1844, 5 o'clock, p. m.
THE DEATH OF MR. MUHLENBERG.
By an inscrutable dispensation of Divine providence, our friend and fellow citizen, HENRY A. MUHLENBERG, has suddenly been removed from this life. But yesterday he was mixing among the busy things of men, full of vigor, and in a state of health promising long years of honor and happiness to himself and of usefulness to society; to-day he is laid low in earth, and the places that have known him shall know him no more. We cannot speak of him now as we could wish. Our mind distracted with the grief which pervades this whole community, is incapable of addressing the people more than the simple announcement of their loss.

The circumstances which attended this melancholy bereavement, are these: several gentlemen from abroad had been passing the last evening with Mr. Muhlenberg, at his house, where they staid until probably about ten o'clock. When they left, he accompanied them to the front door, at which, after they were gone, he seated himself upon a chair, as was his custom, to enjoy the coolness of the night breeze.—Several gentlemen who passed between that and half past ten or later, saw him sitting there. At about eleven he was found prostrate and insensible upon the step, with his head down—stricken with apoplexy. Every effort that medical skill could suggest was made—but in vain. He never spoke after he was discovered, but remained insensible until he expired, which was at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

It is almost superfluous, at the present moment, to dwell upon the loss which Pennsylvania has sustained in this afflicting event. The position in which Mr. Muhlenberg stood at the moment of his unexpected death, was such as had brought forth his public services and private virtues to the view of every citizen; and at no time has he been more fully understood, or appreciated. His long continued services, and tried integrity as a statesman, combined with a knowledge of his goodness of heart & excellence in all his domestic relations, had secured to him the respect and the affection of the community; and had it been his fortune to have remained among us for a few short weeks, such an evidence of popular estimation would have been given as would have shewn that Henry A. Muhlenberg enjoyed a degree of regard among the people of Pennsylvania which has never been surpassed. Of the many distinguished men who have graced the Commonwealth, no one was ever more universally esteemed. Even detractors hesitated to strike at him, who was only known to be beloved; and when calumny did venture to rear its head, it awakened no other feeling than that of scorn and disgust. But while considerations like this increase the poignancy of sorrow, and give greater cause to deplore the sad dispensation which has deprived us of a man from whom so much was to be expected, still, however, there is something of consolation in the thought that our departed friend had been permitted to reach the full meridian of his fame, and will be followed to the tomb by a General acknowledgment of his worth. It is rather for ourselves than for him, that we are called upon to grieve. He has escaped from arduous duties; while his fellow-citizens remain to regret that his aid cannot be extended to them. It is a proud epithet thus to be lamented; and it is not too much to say that the memory of Muhlenberg will long be enshrined in the heart of his fellow citizens as that of a great and good man, who was called away at the moment of his brightest reputation and of his highest usefulness.

Mr. Muhlenberg, at the time of his death, was sixty-two years of age, having been born in Lancaster 1782; and his excellent health, and apparently unimpaired constitution, gave every reason to anticipate that years of undiminished efficiency and zeal in the public service remained to him.

From the Indiana Patriot.

GOVERNOR DORR.

Below will be found the resolutions adopted at the mass meeting held at this place on the 27th ult. More than 6,000 people were present, and but one dissenting voice. We have never witnessed so much intense feeling as prevailed on this occasion, at the adoption of resolutions. The freedom of speech used may be objectionable, in the opinion of nabobs and tyrants; but Rhode Island ought not to shut her ears to the truths contained in the resolutions. Thomas W. Dorr ought to be at once unconditionally released. That he should be kept in prison, is out of the question. But here are the resolutions:

Resolved, That all power is inherent in the people; that government derives all its just powers from the consent of the Governed.

Resolved, That it is the right of the people peaceably to alter or abolish the existing government, whenever the same is found destructive of their rights and best interest; that the people are the sole judges in such cases.

Resolved, That when the people of Rhode Island, acting according to these great principles, by an overwhelming majority of the legal voters of the State, abolished the Government constituted under and by the old British charter, and formed a republican constitution, they were barely asserting their just natural rights.

Resolved, That the forcing upon the people of Rhode Island, at the point of the bayonet, of a constitution framed by the old charter party, was, and is, an act of unmitigated tyranny.

Resolved, That the imprisonment of Gov. Dorr in the State's prison of Rhode Island, for no offence except opposition to this tyranny, is an act of high hand injustice and violence which would disgrace the name of the most hateful despot of any age or nation.

Resolved, That we have no sympathy with tyrants.

Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in the Indiana Patriot, and that copies be transmitted to the authorities of Rhode Island, and to Gov. Dorr and his wife, by our Representative in Congress.
